

Let's Go to College: School Success (4th & 5th Grade)

Learning can be very exciting. You can learn a lot when you go to college, like how to speak a different language, how to do a science experiment, or how to help those in need. To make sure you learn all you can, start practicing successful school habits now. Do your homework and study your class notes. Completing your homework will help you understand all the great things you're currently learning. When college students have done all their schoolwork and successfully completed a particular course of study, they receive an official document that shows they've earned a diploma, certification or degree, celebrating them for all of their hard work. To receive your college degree, you should have fun in class, ask questions and learn all you can.

Degree Completion

Instructions: Complete your college diploma below by putting in your name, the degree you'd like to learn about and the date you will finish college.

Example

	OCAP University
This degree is presented to:
Harper Taylor
for excellence in
Graphic Design
College President	May 15, 2028 Date

	OCAP University
This degree is presented to:
_____
for excellence in
_____
College President	_____ Date

School Success Habits

Instructions: Jason wants to do great in school, but he needs help learning good habits for educational success. Help him practice the right habits by labeling the sentences below. If the sentence is a positive school habit put a “P” beside the sentence. If it’s a negative school habit put an “N” beside the sentence. The first one has been done for you.

1. Jason studies in front of the television.  N
2. Jason asks his teacher for help with a difficult science problem. _____
3. Jason has a test next week so he starts studying today. _____
4. Jason finds a new place to study that’s free of distractions. _____
5. Jason doesn’t use a planner to write down his assignments. _____
6. Jason talks while his teacher is giving instructions. _____
7. Jason reads for 30 minutes each day. _____
8. Jason frequently borrows a pencil for class from his classmates. _____
9. Jason lets his older brother check his homework for errors. _____
10. Jason starts preparing his backpack for school every night before bed. _____

Homework Benefits

Instructions: There are many benefits to completing your homework. Read the statements below to see if you agree that each activity can be a benefit of doing homework. If you agree with the statement put a checkmark in the “Agree” column, if you disagree with the statement put a checkmark in the “Disagree” column. The first one has been done for you.

Possible Benefits	Agree	Disagree
Losing your recess can be a benefit of doing homework.		✓
Doing math problems correctly can be a benefit of doing homework.
Developing good study habits can be a benefit of doing homework.
Doing push-ups can be a benefit of doing homework.
Spelling words correctly can be a benefit of doing homework.
Being late to class can be a benefit of doing homework.
Being able to read chapter books can be a benefit of doing homework.
Making spaghetti can be a benefit of doing homework.
Receiving a good grade on a test can be a benefit of doing homework.
Going to the supermarket can be a benefit of doing homework.

School Success Habits ANSWER KEY

Instructions: Jason wants to do great in school, but he needs help learning good habits for educational success. Help him practice the right habits by labeling the sentences below. If the sentence is a positive school habit put a “P” beside the sentence. If it’s a negative school habit put a “N” beside the sentence. The first one has been done for you.

1. Jason studies in front of the television.     N
2. Jason asks his teacher for help with a difficult science problem.     P
3. Jason has a test next week so he starts studying today.     P
4. Jason finds a new place to study that’s free of distractions.     P
5. Jason does not use a planner to write down his assignments.     N
6. Jason talks while his teacher is giving instructions.     N
7. Jason reads for 30 minutes each day.     P
8. Jason frequently borrows a pencil for class from his classmates.     N
9. Jason lets his older brother check his homework for errors.     P
10. Jason starts preparing his backpack for school every night before bed.     P

Homework Benefits

Instructions: There are many benefits to doing homework. Read the statements below to see if you agree that each activity can be a benefit of doing homework. If you agree with the statement put a checkmark in the “Agree” column, if you disagree with the statement put a checkmark in the “Disagree” column. The first one has been done for you.

Possible Benefits	Agree	Disagree
Losing your recess can be a benefit of doing homework.		✓
Doing math problems correctly can be a benefit of doing homework.	✓
Developing good study habits can be a benefit of doing homework.	✓
Doing push-ups can be a benefit of doing homework.		✓
Spelling words correctly can be a benefit of doing homework.	✓
Being late to class can be a benefit of doing homework.		✓
Being able to read chapter books can be a benefit of doing homework.	✓
Making spaghetti can be a benefit of doing homework.		✓
Receiving a good grade on a test can be a benefit of doing homework.	✓
Going to the supermarket can be a benefit of doing homework.		✓